

Daily Bible Note

Date: October 6, 2026

I. Today's Reading

NKJV: 1 Chronicles 19:8-19

8 Now when David heard of it, he sent Joab and all the army of the mighty men.

9 Then the people of Ammon came out and put themselves in battle array before the gate of the city, and the kings who had come were by themselves in the field.

10 When Joab saw that the battle line was against him before and behind, he chose some of Israel's best and put them in battle array against the Syrians.

11 And the rest of the people he put under the command of Abishai his brother, and they set themselves in battle array against the people of Ammon.

12 Then he said, "If the Syrians are too strong for me, then you shall help me; but if the people of Ammon are too strong for you, then I will help you.

13 Be of good courage, and let us be strong for our people and for the cities of our God. And may the Lord do what is good in His sight."

14 So Joab and the people who were with him drew near for the battle against the Syrians, and they fled before him.

15 When the people of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fleeing, they also fled before Abishai his brother, and entered the city. So Joab went to Jerusalem.

16 Now when the Syrians saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they sent messengers and brought the Syrians who were beyond the River, and Shophach the commander of Hadadezer's army went before them.

17 When it was told David, he gathered all Israel, crossed over the Jordan and came upon them, and set up in battle array against them. So when David had set up in battle array against the Syrians, they fought with him.

18 Then the Syrians fled before Israel; and David killed seven thousand charioteers and forty thousand foot soldiers of the Syrians, and killed Shophach the commander of the army.

19 And when the servants of Hadadezer saw that they were defeated by Israel, they made peace with David and became his servants. So the Syrians were not willing to help the people of Ammon anymore.

II. Key Summary

- When David heard that the Ammonites had hired chariots and horsemen, he sent Joab out with all the army of the mighty men; seeing the enemy lined up both in front of him and behind him, Joab chose Israel's best to face the Syrians and put the rest under his brother Abishai to face the Ammonites (vv. 8-11).
 - Joab and Abishai agreed to back each other up — whichever side was outmatched, the other would come help — and Joab told them to be of good courage and be strong for their people and for the cities of their God, adding, "And may the Lord do what is good in His sight" (vv. 12-13).
 - The Syrians fled before Joab and the Ammonites fled into the city; the Syrians then brought reinforcements from beyond the River, so David gathered all Israel, crossed the Jordan, killed seven thousand charioteers, forty thousand foot soldiers and Shophach the commander, and Hadadezer's servants made peace with David and would no longer help the Ammonites (vv. 14-19).
-

III. Passage Analysis

Do everything you can, then leave the result with God

"Joab wisely prepared for the battle to the best of his ability and worked hard for the victory. At the same time, he knew that the outcome was ultimately in God's hands... 'To believe that God will do all, and therefore to do nothing, is as bad as to believe that God leaves us to our unaided endeavours.'" [1]

Trusting God didn't make Joab skip a single step — he picked his troops, split his forces, and set up a backup plan with his brother, and only then said, "May the Lord do what is good in His sight." Faith isn't an excuse to stop preparing; it's what you do with the result once you've prepared.

Regrouping doesn't change the outcome

"To how little purpose it is for those to rally again, and reinforce themselves, that have not God on their side. The Syrians... when they were beaten, thought themselves concerned to retrieve their honour, and therefore called in the assistance of the Syrians on the other side Euphrates; but to no purpose, for still they fled before Israel."
[2]

The Syrians couldn't accept one loss, so they doubled their forces and came back — and ended up fleeing again, then making peace with David and becoming his servants. The passage shows that what settles a battle isn't the size of the army but which side God is on.

IV. Reflection Question

Before the fighting started, Joab did some very concrete things: he picked his best troops, split the army in two, arranged with Abishai to help each other, and only then said, "May the Lord do what is good in His sight." Think about your last test or game — what did you actually do to prepare, and how did you handle the wait before the result came out?

Joab did everything he could do first, and then left the win or the loss with God — and that day the Syrians and the Ammonites both fled before Israel, because the outcome was in God's hands the whole time.

References

[1] Enduring Word, David Guzik, Commentary on 1 Chronicles 19 (quoting F. B. Meyer), <https://enduringword.com/bible-commentary/1-chronicles-19/>

[2] Blue Letter Bible, Matthew Henry, Complete Commentary on 1 Chronicles 19, https://www.blueletterbible.org/Comm/mhc/1Ch/1Ch_019.cfm