

Daily Bible Note

Date: September 4, 2026

I. Today's Reading

NKJV: Psalm 119:49–64

49 Remember the word to Your servant, upon which You have caused me to hope.

50 This is my comfort in my affliction, for Your word has given me life.

51 The proud have me in great derision, yet I do not turn aside from Your law.

52 I remembered Your judgments of old, O LORD, and have comforted myself.

53 Indignation has taken hold of me because of the wicked, who forsake Your law.

54 Your statutes have been my songs in the house of my pilgrimage.

55 I remember Your name in the night, O LORD, and I keep Your law.

56 This has become mine, because I kept Your precepts.

57 You are my portion, O LORD; I have said that I would keep Your words.

58 I entreated Your favor with my whole heart; be merciful to me according to Your word.

59 I thought about my ways, and turned my feet to Your testimonies.

60 I made haste, and did not delay to keep Your commandments.

61 The cords of the wicked have bound me, but I have not forgotten Your law.

62 At midnight I will rise to give thanks to You, because of Your righteous judgments.

63 I am a companion of all who fear You, and of those who keep Your precepts.

64 The earth, O LORD, is full of Your mercy; teach me Your statutes.

II. Key Summary

- The psalmist asks God to remember the word given to His servant, the word on which he was made to hope; in his affliction he has comfort, because "Your word has given me life" (vv. 49–50).

- The proud hold him in great derision, yet he does not turn aside from God's law; remembering God's judgments of old comforts him, while seeing the wicked forsake the law fills him with indignation (vv. 51–53).

- He says the LORD is his portion and entreats God's favor with his whole heart; he thinks about his ways, turns his feet to God's testimonies, and makes haste to keep God's commandments without delay (vv. 57–60).

III. Passage Analysis

The affliction is still there, and the comfort is already his

"The worldling clutches his money-bag, and says, 'this is my comfort'; the spendthrift points to his gaiety and shouts, 'this is my comfort'; the drunkard lifts his glass and sings, 'this is my comfort'; but the man whose hope comes from God feels the life-giving power of the word of the Lord, and he testifies, 'this is my comfort.'" [1]

In verse 50 the psalmist is still in his affliction, and the comfort is already his. The reason he gives is not that his situation improved, but that "Your word has given me life."

Once you see it, don't stall

"He acted at once under his conviction of what was right. He did not ask permission to defer it to a future time; he did not attempt to avoid the duty; not plead inability... he did the thing, and he did it at once." [2]

Verses 59 and 60 run in a clear order: first "I thought about my ways," then "turned my feet to Your testimonies," then "I made haste, and did not delay." There is no gap left for putting it off.

IV. Reflection Question

Where do you go for comfort when you're hurting?

In his affliction the psalmist asked God to remember the word He had promised, and he remembered God's judgments of old — that word gave him life and became his comfort right there in the affliction (vv. 49, 50, 52).

References

[1] Enduring Word, David Guzik, Commentary on Psalm 119 (quoting Charles Spurgeon), <https://enduringword.com/bible-commentary/psalm-119/>

[2] BibleHub.com, Barnes' Notes on the Bible (Psalm 119:60), <https://biblehub.com/commentaries/psalms/119-60.htm>