I. Today's Reading

NKJV: 1 Chronicles 16:7-22

7 On that day David first delivered this psalm into the hand of Asaph and his brethren, to thank the LORD:

8 Oh, give thanks to the LORD! Call upon His name; Make known His deeds among the peoples!

9 Sing to Him, sing psalms to Him; Talk of all His wondrous works!

10 Glory in His holy name; Let the hearts of those rejoice who seek the LORD!

11 Seek the LORD and His strength; Seek His face evermore!

12 Remember His marvelous works which He has done, His wonders, and the judgments of His mouth,

13 O seed of Israel His servant, You children of Jacob, His chosen ones!

14 He is the LORD our God; His judgments are in all the earth.

15 Remember His covenant forever, The word which He commanded, for a thousand generations,

16 The covenant which He made with Abraham, And His oath to Isaac,

17 And confirmed it to Jacob for a statute, To Israel for an everlasting covenant,

18 Saying, "To you I will give the land of Canaan As the allotment of your inheritance,"

19 When you were few in number, Indeed very few, and strangers in it.

20 When they went from one nation to another, And from one kingdom to another people,

21 He permitted no man to do them wrong; Yes, He rebuked kings for their sakes,

22 Saying, "Do not touch My anointed ones, And do My prophets no harm."

II. Key Summary

- On the day the ark was set in its place, David first delivered a psalm of thanks into the hand of Asaph and his brethren to thank the LORD (v. 7).
 - The psalm calls Israel to give thanks, call on, sing to, talk about, and seek the LORD, and to remember His marvelous works and the judgments of His mouth (vv. 8–14).
 - The psalm recalls the covenant God made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, promising them the land of Canaan; when they were few and wandered as strangers among nations, God let no one harm them and rebuked kings for their sakes (vv. 15–22).

III. Passage Analysis

Praise Comes in Many Shapes

In a few verses, David lists a remarkable number of ways (at least eight) one can praise and glorify God. Some of them speak directly to God (such as sing psalms to Him), some speak to others about God's greatness (make known His deeds among the peoples), and some are a conversation with one's self (remember His marvelous works). [1]

Praise isn't only singing on a stage. Telling a friend what God has done, or quietly thinking back on how He brought you through something, counts too.

God Keeps His Promise, Not Based on How Strong We Are

God's plan of salvation does not depend on the ability, character, or devotion of His chosen people; rather, He "promised with His own mouth and fulfilled it with His own hand." [2]

Israel's ancestors were few, had no land of their own, and kept moving from nation to nation — any king could have crushed them. But God keeps His word. He protected them not because they were impressive, but because He is faithful.

IV. Reflection Question

Think of the last time you "made a deal" with someone — who kept their word, and who didn't?

God never forgot the covenant He made with Abraham, even generations later; when the ancestors were few and wandering, He never once let anyone harm them — God keeps His covenant, and it never depends on how strong we are.
